Cool Cucumber Facial Massage

Fresh, cool cucumber is blended into a facial massage. The chill instantly soothes the skin while its moisture and nutrients are pressed and infused into every pore. You're left not just clean, but with skin that looks plump, dewy, and freshly awakened—like a drink of green vitality.

Peppermint Scalp Massage

$10

Fresh peppermint oil is worked into a focused scalp massage. Fingertips knead, press, and trace across every inch of your scalp. A cooling sensation instantly penetrates, delivering a wakeful, airy clarity that soothes itchiness and balances oil. Afterward, your scalp feels incredibly light and breathable, as if each hair root has been revived, leaving you mentally clear and utterly refreshed.

60-Second Singing Bowl Opening

Press pause before your massage begins.

When your therapist gently circles the bowl's rim, a clear, steady hum will slowly rise and fill the room.

You'll feel:

The sound flows over you like a warm wave, bringing a soft vibration that starts deep in your chest. Your shoulders drop naturally. Your breath slows and deepens. Outside noise—and the thoughts in your head—quietly fade.

In 60 seconds, you'll move through:

1. Listening → Pure sound wraps around you, calming your mind.
2. Feeling → Gentle vibration resonates through the air and into your body, releasing surface tension.
3. Settling → As the sound fades, your breathing slows. You arrive fully in the present moment.

This isn't just listening—it's a gentle "sound massage."

It helps your body wake up and soften before your treatment even starts.

Your choice:

- ✓ "Yes, I'd like the singing bowl opening." (We recommend trying it.)
- ✓ "Let's go straight to the massage, please." (We respect your preference.)

Just let your therapist know before we begin. Your comfort always comes first.
